About Responsive Inspections

A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the “RHA”). An inspection being conducted does not infer that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee’s management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents.

Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA.

Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home’s Residents’ Council, if one exists.

In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices.

If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action.

Concern(s)

During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relating to the concern(s). Any findings of non-

Concern #1: CON-6443-Building/maintenance

RHRA Inspector Findings

Allegations were brought to the attention of the RHRA regarding several areas of the home's systems not being kept in good repair including the air conditioners. During the inspection it was revealed that the home had been without air conditioning in a wing of the building since the beginning of August. The resultant humidity caused the floors to be slippery and a falls risk. The Licensee was unable to demonstrate that the interior of the building was kept in good repair.

Outcome

The Licensee must take corrective action to achieve compliance.

Concern #2: CON-6445-Improper or Incompetent Treatment or Care - Personal Hygiene

RHRA Inspector Findings

Allegations surrounding incompetent care of residents were brought to the attention of the RHRA. As part of the inspection, resident documents including plans of care were reviewed. It was discovered that not all the plans of care were updated as residents' care needs changed, or at the very least every 6 months. In addition, not all plans of care were approved by the resident or their substitute decision maker.

Furthermore, inspectors discovered that the Unregulated Care Providers administering medications were not being supervised by a Regulated Health Professional.

Outcome

The Licensee must take corrective action to achieve compliance.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
