About Responsive Inspections

A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the “RHA”). An inspection being conducted does not infer that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee’s management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents.

Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA.

Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home’s Residents’ Council, if one exists.

In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices.

If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action.

Concern(s)

During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relating to the concern(s). Any findings of non-

Concern #1: CON-6052-Abuse - Resident

RHRA Inspector Findings

The Licensee reported to the RHRA that an incident of resident-to-resident abuse had occurred. The Inspector conducted interviews and reviewed records of the incident in the home. The inspector discovered that there were two additional incident reports involving the emotional and physical abuse of a resident that had not been properly investigated or reported to the RHRA. The Licensee advised they had conducted undocumented interviews in response to one of the two incidents and they had not investigated the other. The Licensee could not produce any action plans to foster the safety of a resident that was injured as a result of physical abuse of another resident and the resident was not examined by a physician as per the homes policy. The Licensee had not initiated any behaviour management strategies or techniques or monitoring of the aggressors in these three incidents. In one incident staff was instructed to ensure the victim resident stayed in his room for three days and to provide tray service which socially isolated the resident. A review of the Licensee’s Behaviour Management Policy determined that the policy was non-compliant as it did not address strategies for monitoring a resident who poses risk or how staff and volunteers are to be informed of the risk. Plans of care were not based on current assessments and were not updated with the behavioural issues being displayed by the residents. The Licensee had not taken steps to protect the residents of the home from abuse. The Licensee was not conducting care conferences for one of the aggressors who is diagnosed with dementia. The Plans of Care did not provide clear direction to staff of how to provide the care services regarding assistance with activities of daily living or showers.

Outcome

The Licensee must take corrective action to achieve compliance.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
