About Responsive Inspections

A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the "RHA"). An inspection being conducted does not infer that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee's management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents.

Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA.

Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home's Residents' Council, if one exists.

In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices.

If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action.

Concern(s)

During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relating to the concern(s). Any findings of non-compliance identified in relation to these concerns are listed below.

Concern #1: CON-6952-Neglect - Not receiving care service

RHRA Inspector Findings

A report was made to RHRA which included concerns relating to neglect and the care of a resident. As part of the inspection in response to the report, the inspector reviewed records relating to the resident, interviewed the resident and relevant staff, and reviewed relevant internal documents. The inspector confirmed that the Licensee failed to ensure that the resident's plan of care was revised when they experienced a change in physical status and care service needs.

Outcome

The Licensee must take corrective action to achieve compliance.

Concern #2: CON-6954-Emotional Abuse - Staff member

RHRA Inspector Findings

A report was made to RHRA which included concerns relating to emotional abuse of a resident by a staff member. As part of the inspection in response to the report, the inspector reviewed records relating to the resident, interviewed the resident and relevant staff, and reviewed relevant internal documents including training. Although the inspector could not substantiate any abuse, the inspector confirmed that the Licensee failed to ensure that the related staff member had completed training upon hire.

The Licensee has demonstrated it has taken corrective action to achieve compliance.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
