| About Responsive Inspections |
|---|
| A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the “RHA”). An inspection being conducted does not imply that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee’s management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents. Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA. Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home’s Residents’ Council, if one exists. In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices. If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action. |

| Concern(s) |
| During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the | inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relation to the concern(s). Any findings of non-compliance identified in relation to these concerns are listed below.

Concern #1: CON-1418-Improper or Incompetent Treatment or Care

RHRA Inspector Findings

A report was made to RHRA regarding suspected improper care of a resident. As part of the inspection in response to the report, the inspector interviewed staff and residents and reviewed records. The inspector reviewed orientation training records in the areas of zero tolerance of abuse, resident bill of rights, infection control, whistle blower protection, personal assistance services devices, fire prevention and safety, emergency plan, complaints, and behaviour management and found that two staff had not been fully trained. In addition, the inspector found that two residents' care plans had not been approved by the resident or their substitute decision maker. One resident care plan was not based on an assessment of the resident in relation to falls prevention. Finally, one resident care plan was not updated as their care needs changed related to medication administration, falls, and ambulation. The Licensee failed to ensure that staff orientation training and resident care plans followed the regulatory requirements.

Outcome

The Licensee has demonstrated it has taken corrective action to achieve compliance.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
