About Responsive Inspections

A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the “RHA”). An inspection being conducted does not imply that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee’s management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents.

Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA.

Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home’s Residents’ Council, if one exists.

In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices.

If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action.

Concern(s)

During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relation to the concern(s). Any findings of non-compliance identified in relation to these concerns are listed below.

Concern #1: CON-1455-Staff TrainingRHRA Inspector Findings

A report was made to the RHRA regarding various areas of concern at the home. While completing the inspection the Inspector was advised that four staff members hired in the previous four months had received none of the mandated training. All four staff members still work at the home and provide care to residents.

Outcome

The Licensee must take corrective action to achieve compliance.

Concern #2: CON-1462-Resident Record, Assessment, Plan of CareRHRA Inspector Findings

An anonymous report was made to the RHRA regarding concern over the safety of a resident that was wandering/exit seeking. The Inspector reviewed the progress notes of the resident and found they had three episodes of exit seeking/wandering in the previous three weeks. The Licensee could not produce a behaviour management plan for the resident that provided strategies and techniques to prevent the behaviour, strategies for staff to follow for these resident when displaying the behaviour, or strategies for the monitoring of the resident. The care plan provided was completed over six months prior to the inspection date and did not mention the exit seeking/wandering or the fact that the resident was on oxygen. The Inspector reviewed the 80 care plans located in a binder at the front desk of the home. Approximately half of the care plans had not been updated in over six months.

Outcome

The Licensee has advised it has taken corrective action to achieve compliance. RHRA to confirm compliance by following up with the Licensee or by inspection.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
