About Responsive Inspections

A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the “RHA”). An inspection being conducted does not imply that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee’s management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents.

Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA.

Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home’s Residents’ Council, if one exists.

In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices.

If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action.

Concern(s)

During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relation to the concern(s). Any findings of non-compliance identified in relation to these concerns are listed below.

Concern #1: CON-5484-Improper or Incompetent Treatment or Care

RHRA Inspector Findings

A report was made to the RHRA regarding an alleged incident of improper or incompetent care. As part of the inspection in response to this allegation, the inspector interviewed potential witnesses, reviewed the Plan of Care for the resident reportedly exhibiting ongoing behavioural issues, and examined the Licensee's behaviour management strategy. It was found that the Home had not documented specific strategies to address the resident's behaviour. Although the resident had been demonstrating behaviours that posed a risk to others in the Home, the Licensee had not implemented behavioural monitoring as outlined in their own strategy. Additionally, the resident has been exhibiting ongoing responsive behaviours; however, the resident has not been reassessed, nor has the Plan of Care been reviewed or revised, despite changes in the resident's care needs. The Licensee failed to ensure that the resident was reassessed and that the Plan of Care was reviewed and revised accordingly. The Licensee also failed to develop and implement appropriate interventions to prevent and address resident behaviours that pose a risk to the individual or others in the Home.

Outcome

The Licensee must take corrective action to achieve compliance.

Concern #2: CON-5485-Abuse

RHRA Inspector Findings

While conducting this inspection, the inspector found concerns of alleged resident-to-resident abuse. Evidence from documentation in the home and interviews with witnesses confirmed that incidents of verbal and emotional abuse had occurred and were not reported to the RHRA. The inspector confirmed that the Licensee had reason to suspect the incidents constituted verbal and emotional abuse but failed to follow through as required by their zero tolerance of abuse policy. The Licensee failed to ensure that multiple alleged or witnessed incidents of abuse was reported as required. The Licensee also did not ensure full compliance with their zero tolerance of abuse policy following these incidents.

Outcome

The Licensee must take corrective action to achieve compliance.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
