About Responsive Inspections

A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the “RHA”). An inspection being conducted does not imply that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee’s management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents.

Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA.

Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home’s Residents’ Council, if one exists.

In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices.

If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action.

Concern(s)

During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relation to the concern(s). Any findings of non-compliance identified in relation to these concerns are listed below.

Concern #1: CON-9422-Improper or Incompetent Treatment or Care

RHRA Inspector Findings

A report was made to RHRA regarding improper care of a resident including the delivery of care services and the use of a restraint by staff. As part of the inspection in response to the allegation, the inspector reviewed the Licensee's care policies and procedures, staff training records, the resident's care file, and interviewed relevant staff. The inspector found that the resident's plan of care was not complied with, specifically as related to the provision of continence care. Further, the plan of care lacked sufficient detail in relation to the service (continence care) provided and also lacked clear directions to staff to for the proper and complete execution of continence care. In addition, the evidence indicated that on one occasion, pillows were placed by a staff member so as to restrain the resident from getting out of bed, contrary to the legislation. Finally, the staff training records indicated that two staff members involved in providing care failed to complete annual training in 2025 in providing continence care, the Licensee's policy on the use of restraints and the policy to promote zero tolerance of abuse and neglect. The Licensee failed to ensure the plan of care was sufficiently detailed, with clear directions to staff, that staff followed the plan of care, that staff did not employ any restraints on a resident, and that staff were trained annually in all prescribed areas.

Outcome

The Licensee submitted a plan to achieve compliance by Mon Jun 29 2026. RHRA to confirm compliance by following up with the Licensee or by inspection.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
