About Responsive Inspections

A responsive inspection, performed by an RHRA inspector, is a physical inspection of a licensed retirement home. A responsive inspection is conducted when RHRA receives information that the licensee may have failed to meet the standards of the Retirement Homes Act, 2010 or its regulations (the "RHA"). An inspection being conducted does not imply that an allegation is substantiated or that a contravention of the RHA has occurred. A licensee is required to report to RHRA if they suspect harm or risk of harm to a resident. During a responsive inspection, an RHRA inspector may observe the operations of the home, interview relevant individuals, review records and other documentation, and determine whether the licensee's management and staff have followed mandatory policies and practices designed to protect the welfare of residents.

Following a responsive inspection, the RHRA inspector prepares a draft inspection report which is sent to the licensee. The draft report may include instances where the licensee has failed to meet the standards of the RHA. If included, the licensee can respond to these instances and is strongly encouraged to inform RHRA of its plans to meet the standards of the RHA.

Following the draft report, the RHRA inspector prepares this final inspection report, incorporating any response from the licensee with their plans to meet the standards of the RHA. The most recent final inspection report must be posted in the home in a visible and easily accessible location. All final inspection reports from the previous two years must also be made available in an easily accessible location in the home. The licensee must provide a copy of this report to the home's Residents' Council, if one exists.

In addition to inspection reports, RHRA may provide information to a licensee to encourage improvements of their current practices.

If there is a serious incident or the licensee repeatedly does not meet the required standards, RHRA may take further action.

Concern(s)

During a responsive inspection, an inspector will focus primarily on the concern(s) which prompted the inspection and may take various actions to determine whether the licensee is compliant with the RHA in relation to the concern(s). Any findings of non-compliance identified in relation to these concerns are listed below.

Concern #1: CON-11947-Abuse

RHRA Inspector Findings

An allegation of resident-to-resident physical abuse was reported to the RHRA by the home. In response, an inspection was conducted during which the inspector interviewed staff, management, residents, and family members, and reviewed relevant documentation.

The inspection determined that the home had not implemented its Behaviour Management Policy for the residents involved to ensure appropriate strategies and interventions were in place to prevent and address responsive behaviours. The inspection also found that both residents weren't appropriately monitored following the incident.

Furthermore, the inspection revealed that the home did not adhere to its Zero Tolerance of Abuse and Neglect Policy. An immediate investigation was not initiated, resulting in delays in notifying the residents' substitute decisionmakers and the RHRA. In addition, three other suspected incidents of resident-to-resident physical abuse involving the same residents, as well as other residents, were identified. In those instances, the home also failed to comply with its Zero Tolerance of Abuse and Neglect Policy with respect to investigations and required notifications to relevant parties and the RHRA.

In addition, both residents involved had a known diagnosis of dementia and were residing on the home's Dementia care floor. There was no evidence that the home had completed Interdisciplinary Care Conferences in relation to the development of the plans of care for these residents.

The Licensee was unable to demonstrate that its Behaviour Management Policy and Zero Tolerance of Abuse and Neglect Policy had been effectively implemented in relation to these incidents.

Outcome

The Licensee has advised it has taken corrective action to achieve compliance. RHRA to confirm compliance by following up with the Licensee or by inspection.

Additional Findings

During a responsive inspection, an inspector may observe areas of non-compliance that are not related to the concern(s) which prompted the inspection. In these cases, an inspector may cite the home for these contraventions at the time of this inspection. In addition, an inspector may follow-up on findings of non-compliance from previous inspections. Where the licensee is unable to demonstrate they have come into compliance or maintained compliance, an inspector may cite the home for these repeat contraventions at the time of this inspection.
